BURLINGTON FARMER INSURANCE COMPANY! OF BURLINGTON, IOWA.

Extracts from the Press.

We have spent a little time in arranging a few extracts from the many favorable notices received from the press. The whole would fill a respectable volume, so we must be content to give the following as samples of the lot. When our friends look over what we have time and space to present herewith, we think they will candidly admit the solid service performed by the Old Burlington; that her character and reputation is fairly based on meritorious conduct under "fiery trials," that she deserves in return the full confidence and patronage of the public, and that she possesses not only the ability but the disposition to serve them as faithfully as it is possible for any corporation to aspire to.

That the public approve and appreciate their conduct is clearly proven by their steady increase of business. It is pretty certain that their present month's business will be largely in excess of any previous month. We think that it would be cheaper to pay double, or even higher rates, if necessary, to such a company as the Old Burlington, than to insure in companies which delay an adjustment and then wait their full time of sixty or ninety days after that to pay a loss in. We say, all the time, insure in the Old Burlington.—Burlington Hawk-Eye.

The Old Burlington by adhering to a strictly legitimate business, having ample means at its command to fulfill all its contracts, being liberal and prompt in the adjustment and payment of its losses, has fairly and honorably earned the position of the leading insurance company of the State. Having gained the position and commanded the acknowledgment of it by the best Underwriters of the State, they naturally feel proud of the honor, and are determined to maintain it against all competition. And they will do it too.—Iowa Gazette, (Burlington.)

The Burlington is a first class company, and we are pleased to hear is doing a first class business, which speaks well for the citizens of our State who take pride in patronizing home institutions, especially such reliable ones as the Burlington. The Fairfield Ledger, in noticing several heavy losses in that vicinity says: "While other companies wait from one to three months, there is no unnecessary delays with the Burlington; every claim was settled within eleven days." Pursuing such an honorable policy, it is no wonder that the Company's business is rapidly increasing, and its friends are numberless throughout the State.—Davenport Democrat.

In our opinion the Burlington Insurance Company, of Burlington, stands a head and shoulders over any other Iowa company.—Eddyville Independent.

It is admitted by the best Underwriters in the State that the Burlington takes the precedence of all Iowa companies.—Mt. Pleasant Journal.

It is really one of the best and most reliable companies in this or any other State.—Free Press, (Mt. Pleasant.)

Those of our readers who desire real solid protection, will do well to insure in the favorite Old Burlington.—Washington Press.

Remember the favorite Old Burlington when you want reliable Home Insurance.—Oskaloosa Herald.

Every farmer should have his property protected by a policy in some company, and we advise our readers to insure in the Old Burlington.—Union Guard, (Bloomfield.)

We advise all our friends to obtain a policy in the Old Burlington without delay.—Allia Union.

Let our readers bear these things in mind, and by all means sustain and patronize the favorite Old Burlington.—Sigourney News.

We have heretofore taken occasion to speak favorably of the Burlington Insurance Company. We are glad we did so, and are only sorry that we did not speak more favorably of it. We have no hesitancy in pronouncing it the best home company within our knowledge. It is controlled by high-minded, honorable men, who know their business and are determined to do it.—Fairfield Ledger.

We call attention to the advertisement of the Burlington Insurance Company on our last page. It is not necessary for us to add our testimony to that already published as to the stability of this reliable old company, but we do say that we do consider her among the safest companies in the country. We insure in the Old Burlington, we advise our friends to, and all who wish good, reliable home insurance. Read her record! and be proud that Iowa, accursed above all other States by her multiplicity of wild-cat companies—can boast of at least one company that can show a clean record. Her officers are men of integrity, men whose characters are irreproachable, and her secretary, William A. Torrey, we consider the best underwriter in the State. Burlington Trade Circular, March, 1898.

INTRODUCTORY.

The publishers, in tendering to the citizens of Mt. Pleasant, this second volume of the Directory for 1870, would say that having carefully canvassed the City, desiring rather to give to the citizens a satisfactory and reliable guide than to make money, having endeavored, as far as industry and experience in the compilation of works of this character warrant, to produce one every way worthy of their patronage.

In view of the peculiar difficulties met with, in compiling a work of this kind, the publishers trust that any inaccuracies that may occur in the book, will be looked upon with leniency, although with the system adopted but few will occur. The citizens' list is intended merely as a record for citizens and their private residences, inserting the styles of firms, when such exist.

No one examining the Business Index, will fail to observe and acknowledge the practicability of its arrangement, as also that of Churches, Institutions Schools, etc., etc.

To those who deem a work of this kind, one of value and benefit, having aided by their advertisements and subscriptions, the publishers are under obligations, trusting that those who refrained, will be convinced of the utility of the present volume.

If successful in having satisfied our friends and patrons, we shall feel happy in having merited their kind appreciation, in endeavoring to correctly represent the interests of this flourishing and beautiful City.

Very respectfully,

THE PUBLISHERS.

HISTORY

OF THE

THE city of Mt. Pleasant is located in Center Township, a little south of the geographical center of the county, on a high prairie whence it derives its name. Including in its corporate limits at this time quite a large amount of territory, it is yet pretty well settled with a population of some six thousand, constituting a community than which, for its size, there is not another more intelligent, more moral, more religious, to be found in the State. By strangers visiting the place, its situation and surroundings are considered peculiarly beautiful. At a distance of four miles the Skunk river, one of the principal streams of the State, takes its south-easterly course to the Mississippi: while Big creek, a small clear stream, surrounds us in the shape of a horse-shoe, one and a half miles distant north, west and south. In these directions, thickly studding the loamy bottom lands, are seen heavy forests of oak, hickory, walnut and maple, which on the little tributary Saunders' run, approach on the west to the very limits of the corporation; and feathering here into a luxuriant growth of sapling among the large trees, invite many a merry picnic group to find enjoyment in their shade. In the east, the scene is one monotonous prairie, stretching far as the eye can reach, relieved only by houses here and there, and groves which the hand of man has planted.

Henry county was organized by an act of the Territorial Legislature, then Wisconsin, at its first session, held at Belmont, Wisconsin, during the winter of 1836-7. The same act that organized the county, located the county seat at the then village of Mt. Pleasant. And here, despite two or three vigorous efforts to remove it, it has since remained.

The first white settler on the territory now embraced in Henry county, (then constituting a part of Des Moines,) was one James Dawson, who, in the spring of 1834, squatted on a claim one and a half miles west of town. The land afterwards became the Caulk farm, and is now owned by Hugh B. Swan, Esq. Presley Saunders, the first settler in Mt. Pleasant, moved here in February, A. D. 1835. Other families soon after moved in, and in the summer of 1836, the town was platted by Presley Saunders, after a survey by Dr. J. D. Payne, and a record thereof made February 3, 1837. By this, with a slight addition soon afterwards made, the town consisted of forty-eight blocks, including the public square.

Meantime, the population of the place had steadily increased, and at the time of which we speak amounted to about two hundred persons. But the dwellings were still but the huts and cabins of pioneers, as we are told there was "not a single two-story house, shingled roof, brick chimney or plank floor," in the place. During the fall of that year, however, the first bricks were made, and their introduction greatly improved the appearance of things.

The first store in the place was opened by Col. J. H. Randolph, May 12th, 1836. The Colonel had first started business in Burlington, but not liking the location, removed to this place. Trade, in those days, was conducted largely on the credit system, but the pioneers were an honest set of fellows, and always paid their debts.

The first school was taught by John P. Grantham, Esq., in a little old log cabin in the bush west of town, commencing in the spring of 1837. The same building was also used as a church by the different denominations who could keep up preaching.

The town of Mt. Pleasant was first incorporated by act of the Iowa Territorial Legislature, approved January 25, 1842. The town charter provided for a city government, consisting of a president, four councilmen and a recorder, to hold their offices for one year. Under this, as far as we can learn, S. B. Parker, Esq., familiarly called Judge Parker, was elected the first president, and Col. Randolph and Mr. Hubbard were of the council. At a subsequent election, Colonel Randolph was called to the presidency. The town at this date was small, and it was found rather tedious to keep up the dignity of municipal government—though we are assured that an infinite amount of the first talent was expended in the composition of ordinances—and finally, by general consent, the thing was allowed to collapse. The State was admitted to the Union in 1846, and after this, by act approved February 5, 1851, the "town of Mt. Pleasant" was again incorporated. This time, the executive authority was vested in a Mayor; the other officers remained as before. At the election thereupon, held in April of that year, Col. Wm. Thompson was chosen mayor; Messrs. Harpin Riggs, Titus V. Taft, John S. Green and Alvin Saunders, councilmen, and Henry H. McMullan, recorder. We ran under this charter until the spring of 1857, when, by virtue of the act of July 15, 1846, we became a city, with enlarged corporate powers and privileges. At the present time we rank as a city of the second class under the general incorporation act.

The first newspaper published in the county was "The Iowa Freeman," by D. M. Kelsey. This had been published for some time previous in Ft. Madison, and was purchased and brought here in 1848 or '49. In 1850 the furniture and good will of the establishment were bought out by Prof. S. L. Howe, who removed the office to his high school building, where, for five or six years, he published "The True Democrat," a radical newspaper of the strictest sect. Its editor was Prof. Howe; its compositors, his pupils. Several of the young types who set up the abolition leaders of the editor, have since become known to fame in connection with John Brown's operations in Kansas, and in that more gigantic conflict whereby the supremacy of the national government has been maintained. Of later date flourished "The Observer," started by Sam Galloway—afterwards in the editorial charge of Messrs. Wickersham & McFarland. "The Home Journal," "The Iowa Tribune," "The Republican News," are names of papers that have since been printed here, but under those names no longer exist. At present, we have "The Mt. Pleasant Journal," by Mr. Frank Hatton, and "The Free Press," by Dr. D. W. Robinson.

The first church in the place was built by the Cumberland Presbyterians, in the year 1840, on the corner of Main and Madison streets. The same building is now occupied as a residence by Dr. W. Bird. Other churches were erected in time, and we now number no less than eleven, to-wit: Two Methodist, one Presbyterian (O. S.), one Baptist, one Episcopalian, one Christian, one Congregationalist, one Universalist, one United Presbyterian, one Methodist colored, one Baptist colored—besides some other societies not provided with meeting houses.

In the earlier days of the town, there were a great many Indians still lingering in the county, whom the introduction of "fire water" and its civilized vices soon so far corrupted that Pope would scarcely have ventured on his apostrophe had he met them on our streets. They were a mixture of the Sac and Fox tribes, relics of that band which the defiant Blackhawk had led to defeat in 1830-32. For some years a few of these poor forlorn creatures lingered in the vicinity, subsisting by beggary, or sometimes by that singular abstraction of other people's goods which results from confused ideas of the rights of property. But as civilization advanced, the axe of the white settler ringing in the forest, and his cabin building on the prairie, with the strange apparition of a city growing up in their midst day by day, these wild children of the woods turned their faces to the setting sun, and passed away from their old hunting grounds forever.

Though Mt. Pleasant has like every other town, passed through a time of pioneering, and known the day of small things, yet there are now probably none in the State which excel it in the culture of all those delicate refinements which make this life pleasant. To such extent, indeed, have the citizens encouraged and promoted the cause of liberal education, the adoption of all true reform movements in every department, the dissemination of principles of strict morality and temperance, that the reputation of the city has gone abroad, as that of a locality where it were good to dwell. And it has ever been the boast of the city that drunkenness is not tolerated in the shadow of her walls. From the first, a class of the most intelligent and moral have been attracted here to settle, and this element gaining so great an ascendancy, all rival influences have been effectually discouraged from making any effort. At this time, the presence of first-class schools, with their good influence, and churches for the accommodation of all, give us good cause to believe that here the seeds of vice may never spring to full growth, but in our garden the flowers of virtue bloom forever. The Iowa Wesleyan University, elsewhere noted at length, numbering already among her graduates more than one hundred persons, with full classes in attendance; the academy of Prof. Howe, one of the oldest schools in the place, whose pupils are scattered all over the west; the Female Seminary, founded within a few years, and now enjoying great prosperity, under the superintendence of Rev. E.

L. Belden ; and a well organized and graded system of public schools, with a high school department wherein may be completed a good course of study ; these are some among the features that attract the immigrant seeking a home.— Nor has it been without proportionate advantage to us, that by the choice of the legislature, this was selected for the location of that eminently charitable institution, the state Insane Hospital. Large and commodious, at once a credit to the architect who planned, and the hands that built, its presence is an honor to the place.

As a business center, Mt. Pleasant has not ranked so high as her sister cities, probably through the mistaken management of her capitalists, or the misapplication of their means. At present, she supports two banks, three hotels, eighteen dry goods stores, seventeen groceries, six clothing stores, six boot and shoe stores, five hardware stores, four drug stores, three furniture stores, three book stores, three pump and lightning rod establishments, two marble works, one foundry, two tanneries, two lumber yards, one queensware store, and others in proportion. What she needs is manufacturing establishments. These her population and that of the county can well sustain. The money which goes away to buy clothing could then be kept at home. We need woolen factories, paper mills, foundaries—we need more labor and more capital, and the profit will amply repay. Situated in a region of country exceedingly fertile, and whose mineral resources promise abundantly ; well watered by the Skunk river and its tributaries Big creek and Big and Little Cedar, on each of which are forests of fine timber, with several quarries of excellent building stone, and frequent beds of coal ; sustained by a population of intelligent, thrifty farmers ; located in a State than which none stands higher on the roll of national honor ; with a past reputation to which she can point without regret ; there is certainly no reason why Mt. Pleasant should not continue to rise in importance and increase in wealth. The Burlington & Missouri River Railroad furnishes direct communication with the East, while now the immediate prospect of another road, the great St. Paul and St. Louis line, crossing the other at this place, already cheers us with the hope of increasing trade. Established thus as a junction point on two such important lines of travel, with a rival market for produce, incalculable advantages are at once secured.

With these considerations duly weighed, regarding location, population, and the prospects of growth, incident upon causes now working, it is hoped the predictions here expressed of the future of our city have not been too sanguine.— We would not have them so. Our needs are great. We want more farmers—more men to till our fertile fields that lie adjacent, with their great wealth undeveloped. On these depends the growth of the city. It is not in the number of houses, or the wealth in our tills ; not in the multitude of our schools, or the altitude of our church spires, that prosperity consists. Our population must be right.

" Ill fares the land, to hastening ills a prey,
Where wealth accumulates, and men decay ;
Princes and kings may flourish and may fade,
A breath can make them as a breath has made ;
But a bold peasantry, their nation's pride,
When once destroyed can never be supplied."

To our fertile prairies, then, are the husbandmen invited—they who among the rocks of eastern hillsides, earn a scanty living—here where land is cheap and farming easy—where none is so poor but he may be lord of a manor. And with such a population to sustain, we leave it to some other prophet to say what our future shall be.

EDUCATIONAL.

Iowa Wesleyan University.

The Iowa Wesleyan University is located in this city. Its buildings are on a beautiful plat of ground containing twenty acres. The main edifice is one hundred feet long, fifty-four feet wide, and three stories high. There is also a building sixty feet long, thirty feet wide and two stories high. Both buildings are of brick, and furnish as ample and attractive accommodations as are usually possessed by such Institutions.

There are in the Institution six departments; the Preparatory, the Collegiate, the Scientific, the Law, the department of Modern Languages, and the department of Fine Arts. In any of these departments students can readily be classed according to their preparation.

The year includes three terms of study, and three vacations. The Commencement takes place the third Wednesday of June. The first term begins the first Wednesday of September. The second term begins the second Wednesday of December. The third term begins the third Wednesday of March.

The University has had the usual experience of such Institutions in this country. It has seen dark days, and known what it was to struggle with difficulties. But it has held steadily on its way, and, during the fourteen years of its existence, hundreds have, in its rooms, fitted themselves for usefulness and honor. Its graduates already number over one hundred.

It has just celebrated its Fifteenth Commencement, and perhaps at no previous one has there been so much of interest and hopefulness among its friends.

It is now under the Presidency of Rev. John Wheeler, D. D., and with him are associated competent and diligent instructors in all the departments.

Additions are constantly being made to the Library, Apparatus, Museum, and Endowment Fund of the Institution. Its friends are devoting themselves with new vigor to its interests. The community is becoming more and more awake to the necessity of the University to the prosperity of this section of the State; and there is good reason to believe that those who are so vitally interested in the well-being of the Institution will furnish it with all it yet needs to assure it large and permanent prosperity.

Mt. Pleasant High School and Female Seminary.

Monroe street, north-east corner of Locust. Prof. S. L. Howe, Principal and Proprietor. In 1845 this Institution was established in the town of Mt. Pleasant, by Prof. Samuel L. Howe, under whose supervision it was successfully conducted for nearly twenty years, when, owing to ill health and the pressure of other duties, he relinquished its Superintendancy and placed the school in the care of his son, Edward P. Howe, who conducted it with great success till the winter of 1867 and '68, when he was called to take charge of the Bonaparte Academy, and S. L. Howe again became Principal of the Mt. Pleasant School, which has since been conducted and will continue to be conducted by him. The thorough and practical scientific knowledge it imparts, the complete system of mental discipline it pursues, the moulding of the mind to intelligence, and the heart to virtue, the energy and zeal it inspires in the pupils, are all more and more felt and appreciated. From no school are so many teachers supplied to the State and from none are they so eagerly sought. Free and untrammelled, the mind of the pupil is permitted to range through the mental, moral and scientific world, gathering the fruits of pleasant, patient, and successful investigation. The good qualities of the mind and heart are seized upon, cherished and cultivated, till they outgrow, and finally overcome the unpromising, unlovely, and debasing dispositions and propensities with which youth are sometimes afflicted. To train the youth of the land to act well their part in the great drama of life in which they must necessarily be engaged, is the design and decided tendency of this Institution. The pupils live in the very heart and soul of the teacher, and he trusts, to some good extent, at least, he lives in theirs. It is a Mutual Insurance Company, in which one insures the success of another, and the teacher of all.

The Institution stands on its own reputation; it asks the testimony of its own works only, to secure its prosperity; it ardently seeks, and especially desires an acquaintance with the wise and good of the land. Its best friends are those who best know it, and its enemies, if it has any, are those who have but little, if any knowledge of its modus operandi.

The Mt. Pleasant Female Seminary.

This Institution was opened in September, 1863, under the charge of Rev. G. P. Bergen, now of Birmingham, Iowa. He conducted it one year, and in September, 1864, it passed under its present management. It is incorporated under the laws of the State. The Directors are Rev. E. L. Belden, J. H. Whiting, Esq., and Miss M. C. McCulloch. The building and furniture have cost $20,000.

Sixty-five boarders can be accommodated. It is hoped that a still larger building will be erected in a year or two. Six acres of ground belong to the Seminary. The object of this Institution is to give a liberal Christian Education to the young ladies entrusted to its care. Thoroughness is aimed at, both in the solid and ornamental branches. The health, manners, morals and scholarship of pupils are carefully looked after. No case of serious illness, and no death has ever occurred in the Seminary.

Thirty-five young ladies have been graduated, who will compare favorably with the same number of graduates of any Seminary East or West.

Unsurpassed facilities for thorough instruction in Music and Painting.

The present corps of teachers consists of—

Miss M. C. McCULLOUGH,

Prof. A. ROMMEL,

Mrs. JANE M. BELDEN,

Mrs. RACHEL P. MORTON,

SCHOOL FOR TEACHERS,

CONDUCTED DURING SUMMER AND FALL VACATIONS, BY PROFESSOR SAMUEL L. HOWE.

Being upheld by no sect or party, and resting alone on the diligence, perseverance and reputation of its conductor, it has attained a standing unequalled by any other similar Institution in the state.

It will be the constant aim and untiring effort of the proprietor to maintain, in the future, the pre-eminence with which this Seminary has been honored.

We claim for it the following characteristics, which, at any time, before competent judges, we are ready to verify:

I.—It is moral, scientific and systematic in all its operations, its only object being so to develop and educate children and youth, that they may attain morally, physically and mentally the full stature of perfect men and women.

II.—It is logical and thorough in its mental training; the pupil is taught to think, reason and reflect, and is thus sure to obtain a complete knowledge of the sciences he resolves to conquer, and to conquer them from three to five times quicker and more thoroughly than in most other schools.

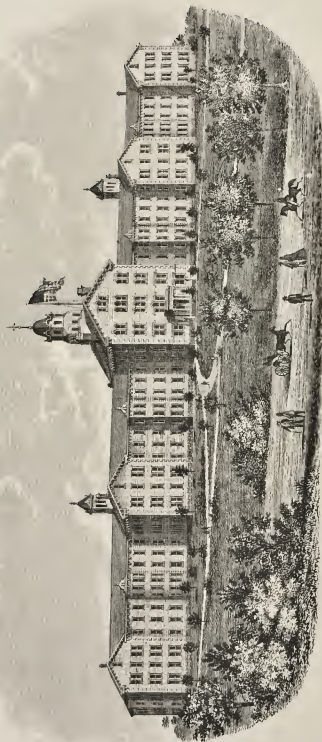

III.—All the instruction is based upon principle; the pupil is taken to the foundation of every science; he knows it all; hence, what he learns he will never forget.

IV.—It teaches the love of knowledge for its own sake; all naturally love to know, and if this love is not smothered, it will increase; hence, a pupil thoroughly drilled in this school will, after he leaves it, overcome all obstructions and educate himself.

V.—It professes to teach truth in arrangement or principles; the errors are rejected, the truths retained.

VI.—We claim for this school, both in manner and matter, advantages superior to any other similar school in the state; and we invite parents and guardians to send in their children and to visit the school, and see and know for themselves. We challenge a fair and honorable comparison.

HOSPITAL FOR THE INSANE, Mt. Pleasant, Iowa.

IOWA HOSPITAL FOR THE INSANE.

Institutions and hospitals for the curative treatment of the insane, belong exclusively to modern times. The earlier establishments of this kind were scarcely more than "mad-houses" and "bedlams," in the strictest sense of the words. They were little else than places of detention for the unhappy sufferers.

About the middle of the last century the first establishment solely for the insane, was erected in England. It was not, however, till many years later, when the sympathies of the English people had been aroused in consequence of the derangement of their unfortunate king, George III, that anything further was done for their relief.

Contemporaneously with the first movements in England, provisions for the insane were made in this country. The first in order of time was the Pennsylvania Hospital, in the city of Philadelphia, founded in 1751, and opened for patients in the following year. The next practical effort was the erection of the Eastern Asylum, at Williamsburg, Virginia, opened in 1773. In 1771 a charter was granted for the "New York Hospital," into which insane patients were received in 1797, and out of which grew the "Bloomington Asylum," situated in the northern part of New York city.

As far as known, this was all the provision made for the insane in this country during the eighteenth century. In these, however, the treatment was little more than custodial, and bore little resemblance to that of the present day.

"We have now arrived," says a distinguished medical writer of our time, "at the period of initiation, in another country, of an enterprise which, whether we regard the boldness of its beginning, the rapidity of its progress, the extent of territory over which it spread, the success which it has achieved, or the amount of good to mankind of which it has been the minister, challenges the admiration of every advocate of human improvement and every lover of his race. In the midst of all the horrors of the French revolution, Dr. Pinel walked the red-dened streets of Paris, a minister of benevolence—a physician with a heart. He was connected with the Bicetre Hospital, in which many of the insane were confined in cells, and loaded with chains and manacles. After repeated solicitations, he at length, in the latter part of the year 1791, obtained permission from the public authorities to remove these torturing instruments of bodily restraint. The first person upon whom the experiment was tried, was an English captain, who, being subject to paroxysms of extreme violence, had been chained there 40 years. A promise of good behavior having been obtained from him, the chains were loosed, and the man, returning as it were to the joys of life, kept his promise, rendered himself useful, and had no recurrence of maniacal fury during the two additional years of his residence in the hospital. * * * History furnishes few sketches of more touching interest than the account of these proceedings given by M. Scission, son of the chief actor in them."

Germany, and some other European countries, were not far behind in introducing new and improved methods in the treatment of the insane; and some enlightened philanthropists of each country, through their well-directed zeal, won for themselves imperishable renown.

This new and humane movement spread less rapidly, for a brief period, on this side of the Atlantic than in Europe; but at length there appeared a fervid spirit of enterprise and progress, resulting in the erection of several institutions that at once took a position in advance, which, to this day, they have well maintained.

In this State, public attention was first directed to the necessity of providing a suitable Hospital for the Insane by the following words in governor Grimes' message to the fifth general assembly, in 1855: "The general assembly cannot be too urgently called on to take immediate steps to establish state charitable institutions. According to the most reliable information, there are now more than one hundred pauper insane persons in the state. One-half of these are confined in the common jails, and are thus placed beyond a reasonable expectation of recovery. The other moiety are remaining at large, a terror to their friends and neighbors, and by exposure to exciting causes, rendering their disease hopelessly incurable. Every dictate of humanity, every principle of sound policy, demands that the state should make immediate provision for the care and treatment of this unfortunate class of our fellow-citizens."

During the winter of 1854-5, while the legislature was in session, Dr. D. L. McGugin visited the capital, and in a public lecture urged an appropriation in accordance with the suggestions of the governor. Moved by the appeals of philanthropic persons, the legislature appointed a commission, and appropriated $50,000. The commissioners were the governor, Edward Johnson, esq., of Lee county, and Dr. Charles S. Clark, of Henry county. Their first meeting was held March 15, 1855.

The sixth section of the "Act to establish a state Insane Asylum," provided that "the cost of the building contemplated by this act shall not exceed fifty thousand dollars; but it is advised that the plan determined on by the board should be one that may admit of future enlargement."

On the 17th of March, 1855, the valuable tract of land, now occupied containing one hundred and seventy-three acres, was purchased for twenty-five dollars per acre.

As authorized by the act, the commissioners proceeded to visit the best hospitals and asylums in other states, and also procured a plan from Dr. Bell, of the McLean Asylum, Somerville, Mass., which was afterwards substantially followed in erecting the hospital. The information obtained by them during their visits led them to abandon as unwise the project of erecting for $50,000 an edifice which would be incomplete and soon insufficient. The united voices of the superintendents of hospitals were strongly against such a procedure; and the commissioners determined to erect a building, complete, capacious and on the best plans, relying for support and justification upon the liberality, intelligence and humanity of the people and of the legislature. This reliance was not misplaced.

Mr. Henry Winslow, formerly a practical mason, and for some years connected with the Maine Insane Hospital—a man of high qualifications and much experience, was appointed to superintend the building. He entered upon the duty October 22, 1855. From this time the work went steadily on, till a portion of the house was finished and ready to receive patients. The first patient was admitted February 27, 1861; and the hospital was formally opened on the 6th of March following.

The year 1864 saw the building fully completed and furnished. Since the opening in 1861, nearly one thousand patients have been received and treated. During the most of the time since its completion in 1864, the hospital has been filled to its utmost capacity.

The hospital has now cost $400,000, including special appropriations for new supply of water, reconstruction of sewers, construction of drain around the hospital, building of a coal house and a shop, and extensive repairs upon the steam apparatus, etc., rendered necessary in consequence of the corrosive quality of the water from the artesian well. This well is no longer used.

Dr. R. J. Patterson, who had had much experience in other hospitals, was appointed superintendent in, 1860, and entered upon his duties early in the following year. From his first report the following description of the hospital is taken:

The building, which is of the Elizabethian style of architecture, consists of a stately central structure, and wings on either side, tastefully grouped in the quadrangular forms. The central portion is four stories high, and all other parts three stories high above the basements. The walls are all of solid cut stone masonry, lined on the inner side with brick. The roof covering is of heavy galvanized iron.

In the central building, which is 90 by 60 feet, and four stories high, are the public offices of the superintendent and his assistants, the stewards and the private rooms of all resident officers. It has also a rotunda 49 by 57 feet, in which is a splendid double stairway reaching to the top. It is surmounted by a beautiful tower, the top of which is 137 feet from the ground. The six wings, three on either side, are for the special use of patients, and are each respectively, 114, 151, and 131 feet in length by 40 feet in width, all three stories high above the basements. They are agreeably diversified by bay windows, projections and recesses, and give an entire front of 512 feet. Two cupolas rise 90 feet from the ground over these wings, and serve a practical use as ventilators as well as ornaments. At the extreme end of these wings are return-wings, each 131 feet deep by 40 feet wide, giving the structure its quadrangular form. Also, there is one central wing, extending from the rear of the central building, 115 feet deep, 3 stories high, in the basement and first stories of which are the kitchen, bakery, dining-rooms, store-rooms and other domestic offices. In the second and third stories is a beautiful chapel 38 by 50 feet, 20 feet ceiling, in the rear of which are numerous lodging rooms for domestics.

In each story of the lateral wing, where patients have their apartments, are placed and always kept, 240 feet, or in the aggregate, 720 feet of water-hose, always attached to the water-pipes, to subdue fire in case of its occurrence, and for the same purpose six iron steam pipes,  $1\frac{1}{4}$  inch in diameter, open into the attics at various points.

The lateral wings contain:

220 single rooms for patients, each.....	8 by 12 feet.
18 associated dormitories " " .....	18 by 24 "
18 parlors..... " " .....	16 by 24 "
18 dining rooms..... " " .....	12 by 112 "
24 bathing rooms for patients.
25 water closet.
24 wash rooms with enameled iron sinks.
78 clothes closets.

In the whole establishment there are 425 rooms, great and small, exclusive of basement rooms. It contains 1,100 windows and 900 doors. A walk around the outside walls is a half mile, and a walk all over its halls about one mile in length. It required 120,000 square feet of galvanized iron sheeting to cover the roof. In the basement is a railroad one-eighth of a mile in length, with iron rail, upon which a hand car carries food from the central kitchen to dumb-waiters beneath all dining rooms. The buildings are designed for the liberal accommodation of at least 300 patients with all needed officers, attendants, and assistants to take care of them.

The entire establishment is warmed by steam; and all machinery for elevating water, for forced ventilation, for washing and wringing clothes, is driven by steam power. Steam is also liberally used for baths, and for cooking. Galvanized iron pipes carry hot and cold water to every part. There are 70,000 feet, or about twelve miles, of iron pipe connected with warming, lighting, and the distribution of water. Iron tanks, whose aggregate capacity of 14,000 gallons, have been placed in the central attic, and a brick cistern, cylindrical in form, whose capacity is 3,000 barrels, has been placed under ground.

A rotary fan, fifteen feet in diameter, with 8 feet span, driven by steam power, secures a forced ventilation. The wash house and laundry are furnished with a large David Parker washing machine, a rotary patent wringer and a mangle, all propelled by steam.

The Hospital Farm consists of 173 acres of fertile land, about one-half of which is sparely timbered and beautifully diversified by hill and valley. The other half is what is termed rolling prairie. The farm will afford an abundant supply of vegetables for the entire household, and food for stock, as well as health-giving employment for our patients. The farm is in good condition, and as will be seen by the Steward's report, has been productive.

The organization of the hospital consists in a Board of seven Trustees, appointed by the Legislature. Their term of service is six years. They are empowered to control the property of the institution, and to establish by-laws for the government of all subordinate officers. They appoint the Superintendent and Treasurer, and, upon the nomination of the Superintendent, a Matron, assistant Physicians, and in their discretion, a Steward.

(Extract from Third Report of Trustees.)

The act for the incorporation and government of the Hospital for the Insane, appointed seven Trustees, two for two years, two for four years, and three for six years. The longest term, six years, has not elapsed, yet in this brief space, four of the seven have died. Col. Samuel McFarland, Dr. John D. Elbert, Dr. D. L. McGugin and Mr. Harpin Riggs. The survivors feel, with deep sensibility, this fatal and admonitory incursion of death into their narrow circle; they participate in the grief of the bereaved families of their late associates, and they lament the loss sustained by Iowa, of so many citizens, whose virtues pointed them out for selection for the work of putting in operation this greatest of the charitable institutions of the State. They cannot refrain from paying some tribute, slight indeed, to the memory and worth of their departed colleagues. Col. McFarland was the youngest member of the Board, yet he had attained the foremost rank among the legislators and politicians of the State. He was the author of the law under which we are now acting, and prepared the code of by-laws by which the institution is now governed. No member of the Board had more weight or influence than he. When his country summoned him to arms, he obeyed her voice with alacrity, and led his regiment to the field of battle, where he fell gallantly fighting at its head.

Dr. Elbert was a pioneer in the settlement of the State; he had been a member of the Territorial Legislature, and President of the Council. His generosity, kindness of disposition, and his public spirit made him a suitable guardian of an institution of charity; and his cordial good humor made him an agreeable companion in every circle.

Dr. McGugin occupied the highest rank as a physician, and he devoted his fine talents with zeal to the advancement of medical science and to the improvement of medical education. He gave the first impulse to the movement which resulted in the establishment of this magnificent Institution. He made a journey in the winter to the Capital of the State, to deliver an address before the Legislature on the necessity of erecting a Hospital for the Insane.

Mr. Riggs was a man of practical and solid sense, and remarkable capacity for the transaction of business. The City of Mount Pleasant and the County of Henry had employed him in various responsible offices, the duties of which he discharged with exemplary fidelity. It was fortunate for the county to have a citizen so upright and so gifted, and it was creditable to the people to employ him in their service.

ORCHARD CITY AGRICULTURAL WORKS,

(Successors to RAY & CO.,)

MANUFACTURERS AND DEALERS IN

AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS!

Would call your attention to the following articles of our own manufacture, which we will warrant to be in all respects A NO. 1.

P L O W S !

Of all kinds and sizes, made of the best material. Caststeel moldboards, and every one hardened by our new process, which insures their scouring in any soil, and adds to their durability.

CULTIVATORS :

Smith's Patent Walking Cultivator, same as made by us last year, but with some improvements, has more advantages and gives better satisfaction than any other made. Would refer to any farmer that has used them.

Fan Mills, WILLIAMS' PATENT—cleans all kinds of grain and seeds, delivering it in a half bushel. Ten to twelve scives and screens with every mill.

DOUBLE SHOVELS!

IRON AND WOOD BEAMS.

ROLLING CUTTERS, BOTH STRAIGHT AND CASTOR.

WE HAVE ALSO THE MOST IMPROVED

Farm Machinery,

Including Stalk Cutters, Corn Planters, Mowers and Reapers, Threshing Machines, Wagons, Grain Drills, &c., any and all of which we warrant as represented, or no sale.

See and examine our implements in prices and quality before purchasing.
Send for circulars.

We want in Mr. Pleasant, a live, wide awake man to take the agency of our implements for the vicinity, who can give the business the time and attention necessary, to make it mutually profitable. Apply soon.
